Happy Anniversary

by Rabbi David-Seth Kirshner

We have a family tradition that each summer when we are in Israel, we take family pictures. Some are head shots of the kids, some are funny poses and some are shots of all four of us. After doing this for the past 8 years, it is dreamlike to look back at these pictures and see the growth and development of our kids and the graying of my beard.

Happy Anniversary

We have a family tradition that each summer when we are in Israel, we take family pictures. Some are head shots of the kids, some are funny poses and some are shots of all four of us. After doing this for the past 8 years, it is dreamlike to look back at these pictures and see the growth and development of our kids and the graying of my beard. We remember those days with sweetness and the time that marked those pictures. That was the summer my dad died, and that was the summer of the war, and that was the summer when she expressed this independence.

Each time we look at these pictures I cannot help but think of what next year's pictures will look like. I wonder at what age will this custom cease because we cannot all be in Israel together. What will happen when we will look back on next years' pictures in three years? What will we see then that we cannot see today? What will mark that time? This is what Dr. Yehuda Kurtzer titles in his book, The Future of the Jewish Past. How will we look back and remember the times we experience yesterday, today and tomorrow?

This is the very essence of an anniversary: a time when we look back, forward and take stock of what is now and critically appreciate what was, what is and what will be.

This year of 5778 holds in it milestone anniversaries for important times in shaping our shared history. It has been 120 years since the first Zionist Congress, where the idea of a modern Jewish state was first dreamt. It has been 100 years since the Balfour Declaration made in Britain for a state for a Jewish people. It has been 80 years since the Peel Commission looked critically at this land called Israel, and 70 years since the UN Partition plan of two states for two peoples. It has been 50 years since the miraculous victory of the 6-Day War, 30 years since the first Intifada, and 25 years since the Oslo Accords.

These landmarks of time are reason for us to pause and look backward and forward and to reflect on how these events have shaped our lives: both the lives we received and the lives we will shape. It also calls upon us to make thoughtful decisions and contributions on how the next mile markers that our great grandchildren will inherit from us, will demonstrate our values and the world we want them to inherit.

This year of 5778, we ask you to grab the hand of your neighbor and take a journey with us. Look deeply into the dancing flames of the candles on the proverbial cake of anniversary and see our past, present and future. See your ancestors in the narrative of the past and add your voice to the narrative of our shared future. We can only do this together. I am excited to take these steps back towards our future with you.

Shana Tova.

Happy Yom Kippur

“Rabban Shimon ben Gamliel said: Israel had no greater days of joy than the fifteenth of Av and Yom Kippur” (Mishna Taanit 4:8).

Happy Yom Kippur. Wait. Happy Yom Kippur

That’s not a typo. In the days of the Talmud, Yom Kippur was one of two days when young men and women would go out into the field and look for their Beshert.

The “Matza Ball” dimension of the holiday is lost, but the underlying joy persists.

As with many things, the critical factor is attitude. For many Jews, Yom Kippur is a day of suffering. The Shofar blast at the day’s end signals only the time to eat again. This view misunderstands the day’s essence.

For many other Jews, Yom Kippur is the day to look forward to. The Shofar blast marks forgiveness from G-d, which is worthy of celebrating with others at a feast.

Over time I’ve gravitated toward the second viewpoint, and I invite you to give this a try. I look at Yom Kippur like the half-marathons I’ve run: it requires preparation; it’s hard work throughout; but crossing that finish line, I feel an immense sense of achievement. And that’s worth celebrating.

Shanah Tovah,

Keeping The Faith

Dear friends,

Another year passed, we are at the end of summer days and about to start another year. What have changed in the past year? We feel like we are living in a vulnerable world, terror can strike anywhere, world leaders change their minds time and again, and there is nowhere safe. In this situation that became our reality, a reality that is hard to understand and accept and even harder to explain to our children I feel that the only way to keep going is with faith, deep faith that there is someone above us that has a better plan for all of us. I believe that with the power of our faith and prayers as individuals and as a congregation praying together in our beautiful sanctuary we can find the world a better place. For me the best connection is through music and I invite you to join my journey. Join us for services on Shabbat and holidays, be inspired by the music and Torah study and make your world an easier place to live in. Give your children and grandchildren the magic tools of our tradition and faith that helps us see all the good that is in this world. Everyone around us talks about Tikkun Olam, but in order for us to fix the world we have to start within ourselves, as individuals and as a congregation.

I wish you all a great year. Let’s keep our faith, work on making our homes a safe place for our families and our congregation and temple a place we can turn to on a daily basis for inspiration of all the good that G-d is giving us in this world.

L’shana Tova, Love,

Israel Singer, your cantor.

We would like to formally thank each and everyone of you for all your kind wishes and generosity in honor of our daughter, Shani's wedding.

Rosh Hashanah

Yom Kippur

Date

1st and 2nd of Tishrei, which corresponds to Wednesday, September 20th after sunset. The holiday lasts for two days here and in Israel.

10th of Tishrei, which corresponds to Friday, September 29th after sunset. The holiday is 25 hours long here and in Israel.

About

Rosh Hashanah is the holiday which celebrates the birthday of the world and the date in which people are judged.

Yom Kippur is the Day of Atonement. It is a fixed time to allow us to seek forgiveness from family, friends, ourselves and God. It is a time for spiritual renewal.

Prayers

Extra Piyyuts (poetry) are added to the traditional service including Unetaneh Tokef, Leyl Orech Din and Hineni

Extra Piyyuts (poetry) are added to the service. In addition, we also have an extra service at the end of Yom Kippur called Neila, which means “closing.”

Clothes

We wear white to remind us of our priestly vestments and to begin anew. Many wear a robe called a Kittel on both Holy Days.

We do not wear leather shoes on Yom Kippur. The Torah commands us to afflict ourselves on this holiest day. “Affliction” means that we are to deny ourselves certain “luxuries,” among them leather shoes and food.

Food

We eat apples with honey to resemble a sweet new year.

Yom Kippur is a fast day that starts the night before. The last meal before is called Seudat Mafseket.

Customs

We blast the Shofar on Rosh Hashanah and the entire month before that (but not on Shabbat).

We do not wear cologne, perfumes, or makeup. Showering is not allowed as well.

Sukkot & Hoshanna Rabbah

Date

Sukkot is the 15th of Tishrei, which corresponds to Wednesday October 4th after sunset. Sukkot is 8 days long in the Diaspora and 7 days long in Israel.

Hoshanna Rabba is the final day of Sukkot, the 21st of Tishrei, which is October 11th (at sunset).

About

Sukkot commemorates the exodus of the Jewish people where we lived in booths throughout our journey.

Hoshanna Rabbah is the time that our final pleas of forgiveness are heard by God and the book of life is sealed for the year.

Prayers

We recite the Hallel prayers and say Hoshanot while holding our Lulav and Etrog and parade around the synagogue.

Hoshanot are special prayers that are said as the congregation walks around the shul building holding their Lulav and Etrog.

Customs

We eat in huts called Sukkot and shake the Lulav, Hadas, Arava (Palm, Myrtle and Willow) while holding the Etrog.

On Hoshanna Rabbah we beat the Arava branch (the willow) on the floor 5 times as if to beat out our own sins.

Shemini Atzeret & Simchat Torah

Shemini Atzeret is the 22nd of Tishrei, which corresponds to Wednesday, October 11th after sunset.

Simchat Torah is on the 23rd of Tishrei, which is Thursday, October 12th after sunset.

Shemini Atzeret literally means “The assembly of the eighth day.” It is a harvest holiday.

On Simchat Torah we rejoice in the completion of the reading of the Torah and begin it again.

On Shemini Atzeret we recite Yizkor and a special prayer for rain in Israel and for bountiful crops.

On Simchat Torah, each person is supposed to receive an Aliyah to the Torah. There are two special Aliyot called Hattan Torah and Hattan B'reisheet.

On Simchat Torah we dance with the Torah in seven processions around the synagogue.

For his Keshet Olam, Coby volunteered with special needs kids through the Closter Challenger Program and Buddy Ball. Becoming a Bar Mitzvah is important to me because in Jewish law, you become a man at your Bar Mitzvah. It is a Jewish tradition that I feel obligated to fulfill, and I also want my parents to be happy for me. My Keshet Olam projects were important to me because I love sports and I want kids with special needs to also have the love for sports. As I become a Bar Mitzvah, I want to give back to the community by helping others. I hope to be able to continue supporting others in need in the years to come.

For his Keshet Olam, Corey volunteered at the Rockleigh Jewish Home helping the elderly in his community, and organized a team to raise funds for the JFS Wheels for Meals Ride to Fight Hunger. Becoming a Bar Mitzvah is important to me because being raised with a Jewish education is greater than just practicing a religion. To me, Judaism is an identity, a history, a culture, a community, and a family. From my early youth, I was taught important Jewish values that today I hold near and dear to my heart. They include being kind to others, being grateful, the importance of community and family, observing and passing down Jewish traditions, holidays and rituals, a love of Israel and honoring my deep rooted heritage. All of this has culminated to shape the person I currently am and the person I aspire to become as a Jewish adult.

This is a non-profit organization that distributes new and gently used baseball and softball equipment to children in underprivileged areas in Israel and around the world. "Baseball has always been a huge part of my life. While visiting an orphanage in Israel this past December, I realized that there were children in the world who could not play baseball because they could not afford equipment, I knew I wanted to help them enjoy the game as much as I do."

For her Keshet Olam, Leeza has been volunteering with her Grandmother Deena who is a breast cancer survivor, aiding with her Susan G. Komen projects. For example, she had a table in a fair where she would teach younger kids about cancer and who Susan G. Komen was and made crafts. She also participated in several annual runs to raise money for breast cancer research. Becoming a Bat Mitzvah is very important to me. Not only does it symbolize growing up becoming independent it also shows how I am continuing my family's longstanding Jewish education from generation to generation.

For my Keshet Olam I worked for the Challenger Basketball Program. This program is where kids like me come to be a coach working with challenged or disabled children. I am there so I can make a kid feel happy and good about themselves. My Keshet Olam project was meaningful to me for many reasons. One main reason is because the experience touched my heart. For example, when the kid you are working with makes a shot and then turns to look at you with a huge smile across his face, that was awesome! Also, I specifically worked with a boy named Clark. Every week I was excited to see him. I would wait at the door until he arrived. Every week we had so much fun that it went from being a chore to something I wanted to do and looked forward to.

My Keshet Olam projects taught me the value of helping others, and that volunteering your time for different causes makes a big impact. I feel that my Jewish education will be valuable to me because I will be able to teach my children and my children's children all about what it means to be Jewish. When I go to Israel in the future I will know all about the different places and its history.

Since I started my journey to become a Bar Mitzvah I have learned a great deal about my family and I feel much more connected to them. When the words Bat Mitzvah come to mind I think of the words tradition and family. While traditions can be done alone, to me the most special traditions are done with my family, my friends or people in my community. A tradition becomes more meaningful over time and through repetition. As such, a Bat Mitzvah is one of the most special traditions of our faith and history as a people. Once I become a Bat Mitzvah I will become a woman in the eyes of the Jewish people. When I step onto the Bimah I walk with pride knowing I am not alone. My journey, and the path I have taken to get to this sacred place, is not unique. Like women around the world, including my mother before me, I will chant the prayers and perform the customs that keep our traditions alive for the next generations.

For his Keshet Olam, Jake is collecting and donating sports equipment and toys for kids who have been victims of domestic violence, meaning they have been abused in their own homes. The place I am collecting for is the Center for Hope and Safety. This means a lot to me because it gives me a great feeling in my body that I am helping children in need. These children and their mothers are in the place they are now because they were being hurt at home, their safe place. I can't imagine what it's like to be in danger in my "safe place". I want to donate to them because I want to make their lives a little better, happier, and more fun. Becoming a Bar Mitzvah means a lot to me. One, becoming a Bar Mitzvah is important to me because it makes me feel older and more mature. Also it makes me feel happy to know I am joining the male figures of my family that have already had their Bar Mitzvah. I'm continuing a tradition that goes back as far as my great great grandparents. My grandfather had a lot of obstacles in South Carolina to becoming a Bar Mitzvah. His grandfather helped build the first synagogue in their town so that he could become the first Bar Mitzvah there. I am grateful that my Jewish education has been a part of my life and that we have a beautiful synagogue in our town.

My Jewish Education will be of great value throughout my life because I will know what to and what not to do in life like I was taught through the Mishnah. I enjoyed being able to help them. Being a Bar Mitzvah means that I will be able to help more people, because I will gain respect in my community. I am excited to be able to make a difference in the lives of others in the future. I am also hoping to raise money to send these children to summer camp. I am also volunteering for a fundraiser called "Athletes vs. Crohn's" to connect young people afflicted with Crohn's or colitis to athletes who have overcome similar challenges.

My Jewish Education is important to me because of the concept of L'dor V'dor from generation to generation. This means passing on the values I've learned to the next generation so it can grow and stay strong. The most important Jewish value I've learned is to not be a bystander and to help others that are less fortunate.

Annual Torah Fund

Mah Tov

The full phrase is Mah tovu ohalecha Yaakov, mishk'notecha Yisrael, "How goodly are your tents, O Jacob, your dwellings, O Israel!" It is a spontaneous exclamation of joy and appreciation, said when gazing at the nation of Israel, dwelling in peace and mutual respect.

As we celebrate the beginning of the 100th year of Women's League for Conservative Judaism and the end of the 75th year of the Torah Fund Campaign, we count our many blessings as individuals within the community of Israel.

As a token of our appreciation, you will receive the 5778 pin for your donation of $180 or more.

Please make checks payable to "Torah Fund" and mail to synagogue office.
